The IMPARTIALIST, or UNIVERSAL REFORMER, No. VII.

(To be continued occaſionally.)

Fruges conſumere nati. VIR.

I Was ſitting the other Morning in my Study, over a Diſh of Coffee, when my Daughter came running in, after a loud Rap at the Door, and told me a Gentleman below wanted to ſpeak with me. I ordered he ſhould be forthwith introduced. Immediately I heard a tripping on the Stairs, and a genteel Figure, trick'd off in all the parade of modern Finery, and with a Countenance that beſpoke a haughty Self-importance, enter'd my Room. After the uſual Ceremonies were over, and I had ſeated him in a Chair——Sir, ſays he, I ſhall without any Apology inform you of the Occaſion of my Viſit. My Name is Flutter; you may probably have heard of me, if you are acquainted with the polite World.——I told him I had never the Honour of hearing him particularly mention'd; but I have been I believe acquainted with ſome of your Family, and am glad of any Gentleman's Company.

It Matters not Sir, ſaid he: To be brief, I have heard you are the Perſon that has favoured us with ſome Obſervations on Gaming: very ingenious egad! very new and ſurpriſing! Things are reduced to a ſtrange Paſs, when Gentlemen cannot enjoy their Pleaſures without Reprehenſion. Private Satire, Sir, I diſclaim; but forgive me if I think it a Privilege, and the Duty of every Member of Society, to expoſe any Practice, with Moderation and good Manners, which he conceives prejudicial to the Community, or diſgraceful to human Nature. ——What, Sir, do you call Gaming diſgraceful! By Heaven's 'tis no wonder that People ſtumble, who never look beyond their Noſes.—Why, Sir, to convince you of your Error, 'tis the higheſt Pitch of Politeneſs; 'tis the Life of well bred Company; you may as well call a Perſon with a gold headed Cane, and embroider'd Clothes, no Gentleman, as ſtile this Amuſement diſgraceful,—ha, ha, ha!——Cuſtom, Sir, may alter the Appearances and Names of Things, but can never change their Eſſence. There are certain Duties which oblige, certain Limits and Employments which become the various Orders and Ranks of Beings: you, yourſelf Sir, would laugh, if your Horſe practis'd the Grimace and ludicrous Tricks of a Monkey.

Very true, Sir: and it is equally ridiculous for a Perſon confined to his Study, to pretend to regulate the polite World. Every Creature, as you ſay, ſhould act agreeably to its Station. Now, Sir, let me tell you, there is no other Standard for Grace and Politeneſs, than the Practice of Gentlemen. They muſt give the Laws, and the reſt of Mankind obey and imitate them.

'Tis a pity then, Sir, that the higheſt did not preſcribe us Examples which the loweſt need not bluſh to imitate. My Son Tom is but twelve Years old; and yet I would think it my Duty to correct him, if he did not diſdain to ſpend the beſt Part of his Time at Puſh-pin or Crambo.

Egad, Sir, and with Juſtice! But what Reſemblance is there between Boys playing at Puſh-pin, &c. and Gentlemen diverting themſelves with a genteel Game of Cards? Your Son perhaps has his Leſſon to get; but Gentlemen are born to Pleaſure. The Vulgar ought to be employed in their Duties; but certainly you cannot ſay the ſame of us; we depend on none for Favour; who then has a right to call us to an Account?—You would have us waſte our leiſure Hours in improving Converſation. What you call rational Converſation would beſit us as well as a Periwig and Sword would ſuit a raw gaping Ruſtic. 'Tis a Rule with us that Reflection breeds Miſery. Can any Thing then be more prudent, than to ſteal away the Time in gay Sets at Whiſt, or Piquet, or Quadrille?

I muſt confeſs Sir, 'tis an ingenious Device in thoſe to forget themſelves, who cannot remember their Conduct with Satisfaction; but it is unfortunate that the Device does not extend its Influence ſo far as to make the reſt of Mankind alſo forget them, whom they cannot think of but with Contempt.

Contempt! contempt of the Vulgar!—'tis what we whiſtle at. Why, Sir, you cannot but know that Greatneſs is fixed above Cenſure. Their Birth entitles them to Reſpect and Veneration, and their Wealth brings along with it a ſufficient Quantum of good Senſe and Learning. Who but they, can fill the higheſt Offices?—Zounds! you would not, Man, diſgrace Stations of Power, by putting them into the Hands of the Vulgar.

I own to you, Sir, that Wealth and Birth—are eſtimable, as we ſuppoſe they give a greater Opportunity of adorning the Mind for every uſeful Employment: But when Riches and Birth are proſtituted to Idleneſs and Diſſipation, they only ſerve to make Folly the more conſpicuous. You perhaps have ſtepped into a Barber's Shop—his Block is a Block ſtill, tho' it be cover'd with the ruſty Wig of the Labourer, the full bottomed one of the Alderman, or the ſmart Peruke of the Coxcomb; and he that would treat it with more Veneration in the one Caſe than in the other, muſt partake in ſome Meaſure of its Impenetrability.

I know, Sir, it is a common Practice for People to affect to deſpiſe what they are not Maſters of. If you, and your grave Companions are fond of grave Converſation; take your fill of it. One End for which gaming was introduced, is to ſilence thoſe Prigs that will peſter polite Circles with their—what they call Wit, and common Senſe. Gad, Sir, nothing can ſtop their Mouths like a Card-Table: All are on a Level; and Jack Whiffle and Ned Lounger, who have never thought in their lives, would, I venture you, out top Cicero or Plato, if we had them alone with us.—You talk of Obligations,—— the Sabbath.—and what not? but you forget that Politeneſs is the only Rule of a Gentleman's Conduct. If you could make Divine Service an agreeable Entertainment, and promiſe us faſhionable Company; you would hit the Mark: But what Buſineſs can we have at Church, when the ſineſt Ladies ſtay at home; and where if they come, we are allowed no greater Liberties than ſmiling at each other, indulging a Whiſper, or peeping at them through their Fans.—Baniſh genteel Amuſements! ha, ha, ha! I expect, next, that we ſhall be lectured to Sobriety and Chaſtity, and be told that it is improper for us to tranſgreſs the Bounds of Morality and Chriſtianity. Theſe Preſcriptions, Mr. Impartialiſt, will never ſuit a polite Generation.

I have always, Sir, underſtood Politeneſs to be an extraordinary Delicacy of Thought, Expreſſion and Action; the Offspring of Benevolence, good Senſe, and Refinement, and the Embelliſhment of the ſocial Virtues: but according to the preſent Acceptation, the meaneſt and moſt profligate (excepting the Articles of Dreſs and Fortune) will be moſt polite; for no one can deny, but that they can game, ſwear as roundly, and practiſe the other genteel Accompliſhments of profaning the Sabbath, ſinging obſcene Catches, drinking bawdy Toaſts, and wallowing in Exceſs as well as the proudeſt Gentleman in the Land; and I ſee not why they ſhould not be honour'd with the ſame Title.

Be this as it may—Mankind will not always remain blind; they will ſcruple to commit their Peace, Property, and Lives to the Hands of Men, whom they perceive too weak to preſerve, too inconſiderate to advance, or too void of Principle to be entruſted with Concerns ſo valuable. There are Obligations, Sir, of Nature, from which none are exempt; there is a Sphere of Action proportionate to the Abilities of every Order of Creation, from which if they ſwerve, they degrade themſelves, and become obnoxious to Diſhonour and Puniſhment.—But I perceive I become tedious;—I will tell you a Story, which may perhaps be more entertaining, and better diſcover my Sentiments on this Subject.——The Enchantreſs Keruyah appointed Amurath, Son of the great Selymus, to watch her fragrant Gardens at Buſſora. "Amu- "rath, ſaid the Fairy bright Sun o the Eaſt, I "have choſen thee to preſerve the various Beauties "of this Paradiſe, during my Abſence: Be Dew "to the Spicy Trees, and a Wall to the riſing "Flowers. If you ſhall have performed diligently "your Taſk; on my Return, your Wiſhes ſhall be "prevented; but if you neglect your Truſt, "expect the Vengeance of Keruyah"——She ſaid—and her Chariot diſappeared, like the Arrow from the Bow. Amurath was ſkilled in all the Beauties of Nature, but thoughtleſs, indolent, and whimſical. No ſooner had Keruyah departed, but he forgot her Commands. The Roſes in vain allured his Eye, and the Jeſſamines vainly courted his Hand to prune their Branches. Sun after Sun ſaw him playing beſide the Rivulet with the burſting Bubbles; or perſuing the vagrant Butterfly around the Walks, or over the Beds of Roſes. Time inſenſibly ſtole away, 'till he was rous'd, one Morning from his favourite Purſuit by a tremendous Voice, which call'd the Name of Amurath. He ſtartled, and turning, beheld the vengeful Keruyah alighted from her Chariot; and trembled as he ſaw. "Unworthy Amurath, cried the Fai- "ry, is this thy Return for my Favours? For this "waſt thou plac'd in the fragrant Gardens of Buſ- "ſora?—Go, filly Wretch, and become the ſame "little, trifling, fluttering, inſignificant Creature, "as that with which thou aſſociatedſt! linger with "it the wretched Remains of thy Life, in the ſame "degrading, unmeaning Amuſements which thou "waſt ſo paſſionately fond of when a Man."

She ſpoke—and touching him with her Wand, Amurath clap'd his Wings, and flutter'd away—an INSIGNIFICANT BUTTERFLY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, January 5.

LAST month two Divans were held, in which the grand Signior manifeſted his intention of heading his army next campaign; the firſt was compoſed of the heads of the law, who repreſented to the Sultan the danger the capital would be in by his abſence; and the ſecond, compoſed of the principal officers of the army, approved his deſign greatly; and after they had finiſhed their diſcourſe, his Highneſs made them this propoſition, "Can you aſſure me, and be bound for the ſame, that at my arrival at Adrianople, or the army, I ſhall be in ſecurity?" Since that time, it is ſaid that the Grand Signior will follow the Lawyers advice; and we are aſſured that his Highneſs has declared that he will not abſent himſelf from his Seraglio, tho' the enemy were at the gates of the city. This reſolution has ſpread a general diſcontent among the people, who ſhew it publickly, by inſulting the Sultan in the open ſtreets.

The accounts of the arrival of the third Ruſſian ſquadron in the Archipelago have renewed our alarms in regard to the Dardanelles. If that ſquadron ſucceeds in forcing the Dardanelles, the Grand Signior will then be obliged to liſten to the propoſitions of peace made him by different foreign Miniſters.

Meſſina, Jan. 8. A Ruſſian man of war of 60 guns, and two ſmall frigates of 20 guns each, are at preſent in this harbour, but not a ſingle man of their crews are permitted to land, and it is ſaid, that a courier arrived yeſterday from the Vice-Roy, with orders for them to depart immediately. The crew of the man of war conſiſts of 800 men, many of whom are ſick. Count de Buturlin, who is on board one of the frigates, has petitioned the Tribunal of Health, to give him leave to erect a building at his own expence in a private place, where he would engage to perform the moſt ſtrict quarantine, becauſe the motion of the ſhip increaſes his diſtemper.

Peterſbourg, Jan. 18. In all likelihood the next campaign will open very ſoon. Prince Dolgorucki, Commander in Chief of the ſecond army, has received orders reſpecting it. The plan of their operations is ſaid to be known, they intend this year ſtriking a grand ſtroke againſt the Ottoman empire, moſt part of our army is to paſs the Danube, and march to Adrianople, and from thence to Conſtantinople, where one of our fleets is to come by the Black Sea, while our united ſquadrons in the Archipelago will attempt forcing the Dardanelles, which will not be impoſſible, as ſeveral foreign veſſels freighted for Conſtantinople, and miſtaken for Ruſſians by the Turkiſh commanders, ſucceeded in paſſing thoſe caſtles, notwithſtanding the fire of the Ottoman artillery.

Paris, Feb. 8. The number of members of parliament which are exiled, amount to 267

Venice Feb. 9. Letters from Cairo of December laſt adviſe, that the cities of Gedda and Mecca have been retaken from Ali Bey; that the Arabs, commanded by their Chief, having unexpectedly attacked the Egyptian army, had routed it, entered vigorouſly into thoſe two places, after cutting in pieces the garriſon of Gedda, which was compoſed of two thouſand men, all excepting fifteen perſons, who with Ali Bey, their commander, eſcaped by flight, and that, on this occaſion, a number of the inhabitants of both thoſe towns loſt their lives.—Theſe letters add, that Ali Bey had conceived a new deſign of entering that country; that he propoſed doing this by Paleſtine and Syria, and that ſome merchants, who were upon the road towards thoſe places with a conſiderable quantity of goods, having timely perceived the approaching change, had taken care not to run any hazard.

Stockholm, Feb. 12. Our late Sovereign the King of Sweden, Adolphus Frederick, expired ſuddenly, about eight o'clock this evening, at his Palace in this city, in the ſixty firſt year of his age, and twentieth of his reign.

Stockholm, Feb. 15. On Wedneſday morning early the ſenate aſſembled, and gave orders for proclaiming his preſent Majeſty Guſtavus, (which was accordingly performed the ſame day at noon with the uſual ſolemnity) to whom they immediately took the oath of fidelity in the preſence of their colleges, who were ſummoned for that purpoſe to the Council room; after which they waited upon Prince Charles, and adminiſtred the ſame oath to his Royal Highneſs, which will likewiſe be taken by all the colleges.

LONDON.

March 11 Zachariah Hood, Eſq; late Stamp-Maſter for the Province of Maryland, is appointed, Comptroller of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms, for the Port of Philadelphia in Pennſylvania, in the room of the late Alexander Barclay, Eſq; deceaſed.

QUEBEC, April 11.

Yeſterday were executed, on the Grand Parade of this City, purſuant to Sentence of a Court of Over and Terminer, held the 26th Ult. John Beſt, William Stewart, and John M'Ewen, late Soldiers of his Majeſty's 10th Regiment of Foot, for aſſaulting and robbing Jacob Rowe, Eſq; on the 18th Day of February laſt. At the Place of Execution they acknowledg'd their Crimes, forgave their Proſecutors, and died ſeemingly very penitent.

NEWPORT, April 15.

At the Superior Court, held laſt Week, in King's County, Bills of Indictment were found againſt Eleven Perſons, for being concerned in breaking open the Jail in ſaid County, on the 3d of November laſt, and letting out the Priſoners confined for counterfeiting Dollars, &c. Several of the Rioters, who were young, and ſuppoſed to have been unadviſedly drawn into the Affair, were admitted as King's Evidence.——The following were convicted, viz.

Nathan Barber; and ſentenced to pay a Fine of One Thouſand Dollars, to and for the Uſe of the Colony.

Timothy Peckham, Blackſmith; and fined One Hundred Pounds lawful Money.

William Carliſle was convicted of paſſing counterfeit Dollars, and ſentenced to ſtand One Hour in the Pillory, on Little-Reſt Hill, next Friday, to have both Ears cropped, to be branded on both Cheeks with the Letter R, to pay a Fine of One Hundred Dollars and Coſt of Proſecution, and to ſtand committed till Sentence performed.

April 29. Laſt Saturday the Brig Friendſhip, Capt. Dagget, arrived here from Cape-Fear, in North-Carolina; by the News-Papers and Letters brought by this Veſſel, it appears that the Regulators of that Province, who have already made many Lawyers and others quake for their Sins of Oppreſſion, have not yet completed their Plan; but ſeem to be ſtill meditating ſome important Scheme for the Relief of themſelves and their poor diſtreſſed Brethren, who groan under Burthens almoſt too heavy to be born, occaſioned by the diabolical Practices of their Attornies, Pettifoggers, &c. In that Province, we are told, a Suit at Law, for Forty Shillings only, has coſt above Twenty Times that Sum! Such are the bleſſed Effects of an arbitrary, deſpotic G-v-rn-m-nt!

We hear his Honour the Governor has received a Letter from General Gage, informing him, that his Majeſty's 64th Regiment is to be quartered in this Colony, and requeſting his Honour to make Proviſion for the ſame.

BOSTON, April 29.

We hear that Precepts are iſſued for calling a new Aſſembly to be conven'd at Cambridge.

It is ſtrongly conjectur'd by ſome that the reaſon why requiſition for the payment of the King's regular troops out of the province treaſury, has not been repeated theſe two years paſt, is becauſe it was thought the late Houſes of Repreſentatives were too tenacious of the Liberty as well as the Property of their conſtituents to grant their money for ſuch a purpoſe. Such a requiſition was made in Governor Bernard's adminiſtration, for a ſum exceeding Eleven Thouſand Pounds ſterling, and it is thought that another requiſition of the ſame kind and for a much larger ſum will be made, whenever the electors ſhall make choice of men who will be pliable enough to yield to ſo extraordinary a demand.——This conſideration alone is ſufficient to excite the greateſt caution in the ſeveral towns in this province, that they may not be miſled by artful and deſigning men, to the choice of Repreſentatives for the enſuing year, upon whoſe underſtanding, integrity and perſeverance they cannot certainly depend.

Laſt Wedneſday arrived the Schooner Sally, Himan Doane, Maſter, in 20 Days from Euſtatia. He contradicts the Report of his being in Company with the Beaver Man of War; and only ſays, there was a Report at Euſtatia the Day he ſail'd, which was the 3d Inſtant, that the Beaver had arrived at Antigua.

Wedneſday a Party of Soldiers arrived here from Halifax whoſe Buſineſs we hear is to recruit. Remember the 5th of March. (SPY.)

Upon ſeeing the Recruiting Parties from Halifax, many Perſons expreſſed their Doubts whether King George the IId. ſent his Officers to Culloden upon the ſame Errand, within a ſhort Twelvemonth after the Height of the Rebellion there; and they concluded that either his preſent Majeſty thought the better Sort of People there would inliſt, or elſe that he has not that full Idea of our Malignancy which Sir Francis endeavoured to inſpire. Some propoſed getting a few Affidavits in Regard to the Point in Doubt, but it was anſwered, that the only Magiſtrate before whom it would be proper to take them, was gone over Sea to viſit M^r^ Quirk.

On the 6th Inſtant Mr. Noah Norcroſs of Princetown was felling a Tree, which lodged upon another, and as he attempted to fell the latter, it ſuddenly ſplit, hove back and fell upon him, which inſtantly put an End to his Life—He was found next Morning with many Bruiſes and broken Bones, having his Ax ſtill in his Hands.

The Houſe of Repreſentatives, choſe Thomas Cuſhing, Eſq; Commiſſary-General, and John Wheelwright, Eſq; Truck-maſter for Fort Pownal; both of whom his Excellency was pleaſed to negative. Then they choſe John Hancock, Eſq; Commiſſary-General, and William Crawford, Eſq; Truckmaſter for ſaid Fort: Theſe Gentlemen his Excellency alſo negatived.

Wedneſday Mr. Samuel Adams, was choſen Commiſſary, and immediately negatived, by the Governor.

We hear the further Choice of a Commiſſary and a Truck Maſter is poſtponed till May Seſſion.

NEW-LONDON, April 26.

We hear from Stratford, that the Rev, Dr. Johnſon, has taken a houſe in that town for the Dean of Limrick, whom he expects daily, he being appointed by the King to inſpect into the ſtate of the epiſcopal churches on the continent, and make return annually from this colony. He is to continue in this office four years.——Whether this office is to be eſtabliſhed, or whether it is only to prepare the way for an American Biſhop, we do not learn; but this is evident, that the preſent method of information, (by the Miſſionaries in their letters to the Honourable Society) renders it highly neceſſary that there ſhould be ſome other way than what has been uſually practiſed, for a right information of the epiſcopal churches in theſe colonies, and the conduct of their Miſſionaries, and the great need they ſtand in of a viſitor.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.

Monday laſt arrived here the Ship Riſing Sun, Capt. Holmes, with four companies of his Majeſty's Twenty-firſt Regiment from Auguſtine.

NEW-YORK, May 9.

Extract from the Votes of the General Aſſembly of the Colony of New-Jerſey.

Houſe of Aſſembly, April 19, 1771.

Stevens and Mr. Parker, Agents on the Part of this Colony, laid before the Houſe, a Law of the Province of New-York, lately paſſed, entitled, 'An Act for eſtabliſhing the Boundary or Partition Line between the Colonies of New-York and Nova-Cæſarea, or New-Jerſey, and for confirming Titles and Poſſeſſions; and prayed that a Law ſimilar thereto may be paſſed here; which Law of New-York was read, and the further Conſideration of the Matter referred till next Seſſion of Aſſembly.

The Snow Buchanan, Capt. Karr, from this Port, for Glaſgow, is caſt away in the River Clyde owing to her Hands being impreſſed by one of his Majeſty's Tenders; the Veſſel entirely loſt, but the Cargo, conſiſting of Mahogany, was ſaved.

Capt. Stewart, in a Sloop from St. Euſtatia, of this Port, was caſt away at North-Carolina; the Veſſel entirely loſt, with the greateſt Part of the Cargo.

Capt. Miller ſays, that ſeveral Veſſels fell down from London, in company with him for Boſton; and that the Captains Berton and Thomas Miller, were to ſail for this Port, about the latter End of March.

Capt. Prince in 36 Days from Cayanne, in Lat. 26, Long. 67, ſpoke with a Schooner from Philadelphia, for Jamaica, out 12 Days, but did not learn the Captain's Name, as it blew hard at the Time: The Schooner had Topſails; and in Lat. 35, 40, Lon. 69, 10, ſpoke with a Sloop from Turk's-Iſland for Boſton lying too, but could not learn the Captain's Name of either.

About Nine o'Clock on Tueſday Night the 31ſt ult, one Stephen Jarvis, belonging to Huntingdon, in going on board his Boat, lying at Beekman's Slip, accidentally fell upon one of the Timber-Heads of the Boat, whereby he received ſuch a Contuſion on his Breaſt, that he expired the next Day.

Tueſday laſt the Ship London, Capt. Chambers, arrived here in 8 Weeks and 3 Days from London, with whom came Paſſengers Lieut. Robert Sturdea, of his Majeſty's 31ſt Regt. of Foot. Maſters Thomas and William Reed, and Samuel Gabbadine, of Jamaica. On his Paſſage the 25th of April, Lat. 39, 10, Lon. 56, 30, he ſpoke with a Snow from Virginia bound to Glaſgow, 7 Days out; and on the 1ſt Inſtant he ſpoke with a Whaling Schooner belonging to Nantucket, which had juſt taken a Whale: He did not learn the Names of either of the Captains or Veſſels. Capt. Chambers, has brought London Papers to the 11th of March, but they contain nothing material more than we have had; the ſame Day, the Ship Diana, Capt. John Clark, arrived here in 26 Days from the Bay of Honduras, who informs us that the ſame Day he ſailed from thence, Capt. Duncan of this Place ſail'd for Amſterdam.

Capt. Johnſon, in the Snow Dickenſon, arrived at Philadelphia, left London the 26th March laſt. The Houſe of Commons iſſued a Warrant for apprehending two Printers,—one of which was taken, but being carried before the Lord Mayor, Alderman Oliver and Wilkes being preſent, they diſcharged the Printer and committed the Officer for an Aſſault—on this the Lord Mayor, Oliver and Wilkes are ſummoned to appear before the Houſe.—The Common Council have returned the Mayor and two Aldermen their Thanks for their ſpirited Behaviour.

POET'S CORNER.

The VIOLET and the PANSY.

SHEPHERD, if near thy artleſs breaſt
The God of fond deſires repair;
Implore him for a gentle gueſt,
Implore him with unwearied prayer.
Should beauty's ſoul-enchanting ſmile,
Love-kindling looks, and features gay,
Should theſe thy wandering eye beguile,
And ſteal thy wareleſs heart away;
That heart ſhall ſoon with ſorrow ſwell,
And ſoon the erring eye deplore,
If in the beauteous boſom dwell
No gentle virtue's genial ſtore.
Far from his hive one ſummer-day,
A young and yet unpractiſed bee,
Borne on his tender wings away,
Went forth the flowery world to ſee.
The morn, the noon in play he paſſed,
But when the ſhades of evening came,
No parent brought the due repaſt,
And faintneſs ſeiz'd his little frame.
By nature urg'd, by inſtinct led,
The boſom of a flower he ſought,
Where ſtreams mourn'd round a moſſy bed,
And violets all the bank enwrought.
Of kindred race, but brighter dies,
On that fair bank a Panſy grew,
That borrowed from indulgent ſkies
A velvet ſhade and purple hue.
The tints that ſtream'd with gloſſy gold,
The velvet ſhade, and purple hue.
The ſtranger wonder'd to behold,
And to its beauteous boſom flew.
Not fonder haſte the lover ſpeeds,
At evening's fall, his fair to meet,
When o'er the hardly-bending meads
He ſprings on more than mortal feet.
Nor glows his eye with brighter glee,
When ſtealing near her orient breaſt,
Than felt the fond enamour'd bee,
When firſt the golden bloom he preſt.
Ah! pity much his youth untried,
His heart in beauty's magic ſpell!
So never paſſion thee betide,
But where the genial virtues dwell.
In vain he ſeeks thoſe virtues there;
No ſoul-ſuſtaining charms abound:
No honeyed ſweetneſs to repair
The languid waſte of life is found.
An aged bee, whoſe labours led
Thro' thoſe fair ſprings, and meads of gold,
His feeble wing, his drooping head
Beheld, and pitied to behold.
"Fly fond adventurer, fly the art
"That courts thine eye with fair attire;
"Who ſmiles to win the heedleſs heart,
"Will ſmile to ſee that heart expire.
"This modeſt flower of humbler hue,
"That boaſts no depth of glowing dyes,
"Arrayed in unbeſpangled blue.
"The ſimple clothing of the ſkies—
"This flower, with balmy ſweetneſs bleſt,
"May yet thy languid life renew;"
He ſaid, and to the Violet's breaſt
The little vagrant faintly flew.

NEW-HAVEN, April 19.

On Tueſday the 9th inſt. about ſeven o'clock in the evening, Col. NATHAN WHITING, departed this life in the 47th year of his age, univerſally lamented; having maintained an excellent character, even from his childhood, to the day of his death.

He was the youngeſt child of the Rev. Mr. Samuel Whiting, of Windham; but being left an orphan when very young, he had a religious education in the family of the late Preſident Clap.

In early life he was noted for early piety, and an amiable, virtuous behaviour.

In the 21ſt year of his age, he had a commiſſion in the expedition formed againſt Louiſbourg, anno 1745; in which he ſuſtained ſuch a character, that at the concluſion of that war, a Lieutenancy upon the Eſtabliſhment was given him by the General, Sir William Pepperell.

In the beginning of the late war, anno 1755, he was appointed Lieutenant Colonel, and the year following, chief Colonel of a Regiment: and in every campaign, until the conqueſt of Canada, he was employed in the ſervice of his King and country and diſcharged with fidelity and honour to himſelf and the colony, the important truſt he ſuſtained.

Of late years he has been a member of the General Aſſembly, as Repreſentative of the town of New-Haven, and (being in the nomination) would undoubtedly, in a few years, had he lived, have been one of the Aſſiſtants.

He was of a generous, benevolent diſpoſition, and graceful deportment; and was univerſally reſpected, in all the ſocieties and combinations of men, with which he was connected, whether at home or abroad. He had a peculiar talent of diſcountenancing vice, without giving diſguſt; and of reſtraining diſorders (when in command) without ſeverity.

In him the Chriſtian and the gentleman were very gracefully united, and he well maintained a religious character, amidſt the ſnares and peculiar temptations of the army. Having fought a good fight, he finiſhed his courſe with a ſteady mind, truſting in God, upon the gracious plan of the goſpel, and thro' the mediation of Chriſt, whom he regarded, as the great Captain of his ſalvation; leaving a mournful widow, and four orphan children, in the care of that God, whoſe goodneſs he ſo eminently experienced when he was an orphan.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 3.

THE King has publiſhed an ordnance, dated Dec. 27, by which his Majeſty permits brothers and ſiſters children to marry together; and alſo that a widower may marry the deceaſed's wife, without being obliged to have the Biſhop's diſpenſation for the ſame.

Vienna, Jan. 5. For ſome time paſt they have been very buſy in our Arſenals and Magazines; and every week ſome new cannon are proved. It is aſſured, that ſince the acceſſion of the preſent Emperor to the throne, upwards of 4000 new cannon have been caſt of different ſizes.

Genoa, Jan. 27. The Doge of this Republic found himſelf on Friday greatly indiſpoſed, and the night following felt extreme pain in his ſide, indicating a Pleuriſy, and threatened his life. Medicines were immediately adminiſtered, which gave ſome hopes; but this morning the diſorder grew worſe, and at four in the afternoon he expired.

LONDON,

Feb. 14. Letters from Archangel ſay, that the greateſt diligence is uſed in the Empreſs's Dock-yard there, where, among others, above 500 Britiſh artificers are employed, who meet with the greateſt encouragement.

Their Majeſties have ordered 1000l. to be diſtributed to the poor of London, on account of the preſent ſevere ſeaſon.

The addreſs to his Majeſty from the Lower Aſſembly is, we hear, to be preſented to the privy council, which is a very extraordinary circumſtance.

We are well informed, that the Defaulter's ſon (commonly called the Young Cub) made upwards of 16,000l. by the late riſe of the ſtocks.

Extract of a letter from Paris, dated Feb. 8.

"All the Parliaments are going to make reclamations. That of Rennes, more obliged than the others to ſympathize in the misfortunes it has occaſioned to that of Paris, has already wrote to the King, but it is aſſured, that all theſe ſteps will be fruitleſs; that the annihilation of the Parliament is a thing reſolved on, and that there are already near fifty perſons pitched upon to compoſe the new Court of Juſtice, which the King intends to form here; thoſe who are to fill the poſts of preſidents a mortier are already nominated. Our King is as obſtinate as a certain perſon on your ſide of the water.

Tueſday in the Lower Room of a certain Aſſembly a motion was made by George Onſlow, Eſq; for calling in the two Printers. It appearing, on an enquiry made by the Meſſengers, that they were not in waiting, the ſame gentleman moved, that R. Thompſon, in not attending this Houſe, is guilty of a contempt of the Houſe. He was ſeconded by Col. Onſlow. Mr. Dowdeſwell oppoſed the motion with great ſpirit, and ſaid that the Printers, having had a firſt order to attend, and not having had a ſecond order for the ſame purpoſe, were not guilty of ſuch contempt. He was ſupported by Mr. Sawbridge, Mr. Townſend, and Mr. Whentworth. Mr. Onſlow agreed to withdraw his motion, and then moved for the Printers to attend this day, at twelve at noon. After a debate of two hours they divided—For the motion, 115—againſt it, 33. Several of the gentlemen in the oppoſition divided with the majority.

All hopes of a peace between the Turks and the Ruſſians are vaniſhed. The former will not cede a port on the Black Sea, and the latter will hear no terms without that preliminary. The enſuing campaign will be deciſive.

It is ſaid that the Empreſs of Ruſſia has ordered her Ambaſſador to ſignify to our Court, that in caſe her arms ſhould meet with ſucceſs, ſhe will cede to us the Iſland of Candy, for the conveniency of our trade to the Levant.

A private letter from France ſays, that his Moſt Chriſtian Majeſty, and his Miniſtry, are ſo highly pleaſed with Monſ. Francois' abilities, as a political negociator, of which he gave a moſt ſtriking proof in bringing about, with ſo much dexterity, the convention lately entered into between the Britiſh and Spaniſh Courts, that as a reward for the ſame, he is to remain in his preſent poſt three years longer, and to be created a Knight of St. Louis.

It was on Thurſday reported, that his Moſt Catholic Majeſty was actually upon his way to the Court of Verſailles, where he is in perſon to ſettle ſome matters with the French King, which are judged to be of too delicate a nature to be tranſacted by Repreſentatives.

From the Papers relative to the Negociation with Spain.

Tranſlation of Lord Viſcount Weymouth's letter to Mr. Harris, and delivered by him to the Marquis de Grimaldi.

"Sir, St. James's, Oct. 1, 1770.

"Prince Maſſerano has propoſed a convention, in which he is to diſavow any particular orders given to Mr. Bucarelli upon this occaſion, at the ſame time that he is to acknowledge that he acted agreeably to his general inſtructions, and to his oath, as Governor. He is further to ſtipulate the reſtitution of Falkland's Iſlands, without injury to his Catholic Majeſty's right to thoſe iſlands; and he expects that his Majeſty is to diſavow the menace of Capt. Hunt, which, he ſays, gave occaſion to the ſteps taken by the Spaniſh Governor.

"This is the ſubſtance of the propoſed convention, which Prince Maſſerano told me he had full powers to execute. The report which I made to the King, of a propoſition ſo inadequate to the ſatisfaction demanded, gave his Majeſty great ſurpriſe and concern, as every delay throws new difficulties in the way of that amicable accommodation of this affair, which he has moſt ſincerely at heart. I was ordered to tell the Spaniſh Ambaſſador, that when the King's moderation condeſcended to demand of the Court of Madrid, to diſavow the proceedings of the Governor of Buenos Ayres, and to reſtore things preciſely to that ſituation, in which they ſtood before the raſh and unwarrantable undertaking of the Governor, as the ſmalleſt reparation for the injury received that he could poſſibly accept, his Majeſty thought there was nothing left for diſcuſſion, except the mode of carrying that diſavowal, and that reſtitution, into execution. I was alſo ordered to ſay, that his Majeſty adheres invariable to his firſt demand, and that without entering into the unſurmountable objections to the matter of this propoſed convention, the manner alone is totally inadmiſſible; for his Majeſty cannot accept, under a convention that ſatisfaction to which he has ſo juſt a title, without entering into any engagements in order to procure it; that the idea of his Majeſty's becoming a contracting party upon this occaſion is entirely foreign to the caſe, for having received an injury, and demanded the moſt moderate reparation of that injury his honour will permit him to accept, that reparation loſes it's value, if it is to be conditional, and to be obtained by any ſtipulation whatſoever on the part of his Majeſty.

"having executed his Majeſty's commands to this effect his Excellency told me, that he had no powers to proceed in this affair, except by convention, and that he muſt ſend to Madrid for further inſtructions. I am therefore commanded to ſignify to you his Majeſty's pleaſure, that you wait on Mr. Grimaldi, without loſs of time; and that, laying the whole of this matter before him, as I have ſtated it, you demand a communication of his Catholic Majeſty's anſwer, which you will immediately tranſmit to me for his information."

[This propoſal however, though then rejected, ſeems to be the ground-work of the convention of Jan. 22, 1771.]

Copy of a letter from Capt. George Farmer, to the Spaniſh Commodore, John Ignacio Madariaga, dated at Port Egmont, the 8th of June, 1770.

"SIR,

"As you have received the refreſhments of water, &c. you ſtood in need of, my order from his Britannic Majeſty, my Royal Maſter, is to warn you forthwith to depart from this port, and all the Iſlands called Falkland's, having firſt been diſcovered by the ſubjects of the Crown of England, ſent out by the government thereof for that purpoſe, and of right belonging to his Majeſty; and his Majeſty having given orders for the ſettlement thereof, the ſubjects of no other power can have any title to eſtabliſh themſelves therein without the King's permiſſion. I am, &c. George Farmer."

The next letter is from Don John Ignacio Madariaga, the Spaniſh Commodore, to Capt. Farmer and Maltby, or any others that command the Engliſh forces by ſea and land in this Bay of the Cruizada; which concludes thus:

"After this attention, I aſſure you, that if you do not, in fifteen minutes after this letter ſhall have been delivered into your hands by our officer of orders, give a categorical and favourable anſwer to my intent, I will begin the operations directed to obtain it, conſidering the want of an anſwer in the time prefixed, as a tacit negative, that you will not quit or abandon with good will this place, and an expreſs obſtinacy to maintain your reſolution. In this caſe you will experience the brilliancy and ſpirit, with which the troops and ſeamen under my command know how to operate, notwithſtanding the inclemency of the ſeaſon.

"You will meditate upon the fatal conſequences to the innocent ſubjects of his Britannic Majeſty, if, inſtead of the kind treatment I offer you, you will oblige me to uſe the moſt rigid, as indiſpenſable in the preſent caſe.

"At all events I wiſh to ſerve you with all civility in what regards your perſons, which I pray God to preſerve many years,—On board the frigate Induſtry, at anchor in the Bay of the Cruizada, the 9th of June, 1770. I kiſs your hands, &c.

JOHN IGNACIO MADARIAGA."

Feb. 22. A letter from Conſtantinople, January 3, ſays, Advices from Tripoli in Syria, dated Nov. 26, mention, that a large body of troops of Ali Bey's army, after taking Goza, Jaffa, and Rama, had divided itſelf into two parties, deſigning to make themſelves maſters of Jeruſalem and Damaſcus, under pretence that thoſe places were formerly under the dominion of the Sovereign of Egypt.

Some letters from Conſtantinople inform, that a Treaty between the Porte and the Court of Iſpahan, is upon the point of being renewed; which, if effected, will prove very diſtreſſing to the Ruſſians, as the whole Perſſian Empire will be engaged in favour of the Turks.

Some accounts of the Ruſſian ſquadron in the Mediterranean repreſent it to be in a deplorable ſtate.

A letter from Naples, dated Jan. 22, ſays, "If we may credit ſome Letters from the Levant, Admiral Spiritow, having received advice that ſome Turkiſh caravellei, joined with ſome other ſmaller ſhips of war, had left the Dardanelles, in order to ſet fire to ſome Ruſſian ſhips which were careening; the Admiral immediately ſet ſail, and coming up with them, after ſome hours engagement, he drove ſome on ſhore, ſunk ſome others, and diſperſed the reſt. The letter adds that the Admiral afterwards landed on the Iſland of Lemnos, the garriſon of which had ſurrendered themſelves priſoners of war:"

Letters from Cadiz, dated Jan. 15. mention the arrival there, within four or five days, of five ſhips from La Vera Cruz and the Havanna, richly laden. They are part of a ſquadron of fourteen, which ſailed from the Havanna under convoy, ſome time in November.

Yeſterday morning arrived a mail from Liſbon, which was brought by the Expedition packet boat, Capt. Robinſon, after a paſſage of nine days from Liſbon to Falmouth.

Yeſterday Mr. Chitqua, the celebrated Chineſe Artiſt, embarked at Graveſend on board the Grenville Eaſt Indiaman, on his return to Canton, after having ſurveyed with aſtoniſhment a part of Mr. Cox's ſurprizing piece of mechaniſm, deſigned for his exhibition in Spring Gardens, and been introduced by Mr. Merlin, to view the many excellent paintings of Signora Angellica; from whence he was conducted to the Royal Academy at Somerſet Houſe, where he not only met with a polite reception, but had the honour of having his portrait introduced, by Mr. Zoffnii, into a capital picture of the Members of that noble inſtitution, which that eminent Artiſt is executing for a great Perſonage.

Feb. 25. On the 21ſt of laſt month, the Brigantine Liberty, of London, burthen about 130 tons, John Thorpe, maſter, bound to Virginia in ballaſt, was driven on ſhore at Hordle Cliffe near South-Hampton, and beat to pieces: part of her tackle and furniture is ſaved.

It is obſerved by a wag, that lawyers never put an end to a cauſe, they only prune it, in order that it may ſpread into more branches In the famous lawſuit between the Duke of Portland and Sir James Lowther, that now engages ſo much of the talk of the public, it began with one ſuit, which is now happily multiplied to 300; for there have been that number of ejectments ſerved at ſix guineas a head All the Fur caps in England have been engaged on one ſide or the other; they have drawn up for theſe two years paſt, with their brieſs and quills, terrible as an army with banners; both parties have been fleeced to their mutual ſatisfaction; and now when the cauſe is juſt going to be decided, the council on both ſides concur (from a love to juſtice) in carrying it to the legiſlature, to make a new law before it can be decided; and then by the grace of Weſtminſter-hall, and the harmony of both Houſes, it may probably remain as much perplexed, and as freſh a caſe, as at the beginning.

About the month of Auguſt laſt a warrant was granted by Juſtice Watſon, of the Borſtugh of South-Wark, to apprehend the keeper of a certain mad-houſe, the occaſion of which, is related as follows:—A man who formerly kept an Inn near the New Church in the Strand, took his wife out of town in a carriage, on pretence of dining with a friend, but he carried her to a mad houſe near C———m, and there left her; the keeper of which, finding her a very perſonable woman, determined to gratify an unlawful paſſion, and to this end locked himſelf up with her all night in her chamber, ſtripped himſelf naked, and attempted violence on her perſon. In this houſe ſhe was kept two or three days, when the man being arreſted, and from home, ſhe bribed the miſtreſs with a preſent of five guineas, to accompany her to her ſiſter's in town, to inform her of her ſituation, promiſing to return again. The ſiſter ſoon procured her enlargement, and the keeper of the madhouſe is now under proſecution for the offence; the trial is expected to come on at the adjournment of the Quarter Seſſions, which will be held at St. Margaret's-Hill to-morrow. A warrant, it ſeems, has alſo been granted againſt the huſband, but he is gone abroad.—Do not the many inſtances of abuſes of private madhouſes call loudly on our legiſlature, either totally to ſuppreſs theſe abuſes, or lay them under ſuch regulations, as may prevent theſe abuſes for the future.

Feb. 25. It is ſaid, that a friend to the Miniſtry intends making the following motion in the Robin-hood Society this day, viz. Whether the practice of printing Speeches made in that Society, is not a diſcouragement to the freedom of debate?

It has been publickly declared by a Noble Lord, that we may be in peace for a few months longer, under preparation for war, which in his opinion, is unavoidable.

Feb. 19. The Mohawk Indians have deſired a clergyman of the church of England to reſide amongſt them, and to learn their tongue, ſo as to be able to preach and expound the ſcripture in their native language.

A Daniſh gentleman, who is reſident here, and who from his connections in Denmark, has the beſt opportunity of obtaining the firſt and moſt authentic intelligence of the affairs of that country, has informed us, that the invidious report lately circulated, concerning the ſuppoſed inſanity of their K——, is without the leaſt degree of foundation.
